

Coaching Mastery

January 12th-13th | Oklahoma City, OK

In many ways, learning to coach is like learning a language. After learning the fundamentals, you can have basic conversations. This can be very helpful, but in order to be truly elite, you must continue learning, practicing, and getting tailored feedback to help you improve.

In “Coaching Mastery,” we’ll build on the foundation set in “Coaching Foundations” and “Leadership Coaching” to help draw out your full potential as a coach. We’ll discuss the ICF’s core competencies in detail, discussing what masterful coaches do differently from beginner coaches. We’ll also cover specific tools, skillsets, and methodologies used by the most successful coaches in a way that shows you how you can incorporate them into your own coaching sessions as well.

What We’ll Cover in Class

- Coaching skills beyond the basics, including synthesis, metaphor, and intuition.
- How to schedule, prepare, and conduct effective 1-on-1 coaching sessions.
- How to submit a successful recording at an ACC level to the International Coaching Federation.
- Specific scenarios that come up in coaching (ex: when a client feels stuck or says “I don’t know”) and how we can respond effectively.

Details

- Sessions will take place from 8:30am-4:00pm on January 12-13, 2027, likely at the same location (Mid-Del’s Workforce Development & Training Center) as our first two classes.
- Each student will have an opportunity to coach in class. Students and instructor will fill out feedback forms for the student so they know exactly what to do to improve.
- Registration is $475/student and includes materials, lunch, and refreshments both days. Discounts are available if multiple students are coming from the same tech center.
- For students who have already taken “Coaching Foundations” and “Leadership Coaching,” this class will satisfy the ICF’s coach education requirement for credentialing.

Contact Brady Ross at 405-833-2144 or at brady@bradyross.com to register for the class. Space is limited to 20 participants - sign up today to secure your spot!